

Testimony On Police DWI Policies Covers Wide Range

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

One of the lighter moments during the City Council's hearing on the police department's drunk driving policies came Thursday night when a farmer from Crete said he figured out a way to get an attorney to come down to the Lincoln police station to bail him out.

The farmer, arrested for driving while intoxicated, asked the police to call his attorney. He said the officer refused. The farmer then asked the police to call his neighbor in Crete and ask him to "either take care of my cattle 'till I got home or call my attorney. I figured he'd rather call my attorney than go over and feed my cattle," he said.

On the more serious note, many of the people testifying called for changes in the police department's handling of alcohol related offenses.

Some Offer Praise

While some people praised the department during the lengthy 3 1/2 hour hearing, many others demanded changes in policies ranging from allowing an arrested person to make his own telephone call to calling for the disbandment of the Alcohol Safety Action Program (ASAP).

People testifying included citizens who have been either stopped for alleged DWI offenses, those arrested for DWI offenses, those who said they knew of cases of police abuse, a chemist, a former Lincoln police officer and the head of the Nebraska Motor Vehicles Department.

Also on hand was special investigator James Bruckner, hired by the council to lead a probe into the matter. He told the more than 200 people jammed into the council chambers that he was not interested in "hearsay testimony."

"It has no basic credibility," Bruckner said.

Confidential Interviews

Bruckner was conducting confidential interviews with police and citizens during the upcoming weeks which will culminate in his report to the council. That report is due April 1.

One person noticeably absent from the hearing was businessman Roger Dickeson — the man who is credited with starting the ball rolling on the council's investigation.

Dickeson, in a series of memos to city and other officials, has charged that police officers deny suspected DWI suspects their constitutional rights, lock up intoxicated for hours without release, "stake out" taverns and private parties.

13 Recommendations

Dickeson was out-of-town, but Lowell Schroeder read a prepared statement written by Dickeson who made 13 recommendations to the council. Those recommendations included:

— ordering the police to stop the so-called constitutional rights outlined in the so-called

Miranda warning

— ordering that procedures be set up to allow earlier release of DWI suspects

— allowing the person to make his own

telephone call and to have an attorney present

— seeking state legislation to correct the state implied consent law

— ordering that arrests for public intoxication be minimized

Dickeson, who has been critical of the police, said "In fairness to the Lincoln police, it appears that we have simply handed them a social problem, by default, and expected them to resolve it."

Herb Friedman, attorney for the

Nebraska Civil Liberties Union

questioned the arbitrariness of holding a person arrested for DWI in jail "incommunicado for six hours."

"It's a strange state of affairs where a person charged with first degree murder

Lincolnites Urged To Come Forward

has more rights than a person charged with drunk driving," he said.

'Harassed Him'

J. B. Gunn, who said he was arrested for alleged drunk driving, joined other people in charging that the police "harassed him."

Robert Broman, an analytical chemist, said the breathalyzer machine used by the police to measure the concentration of alcohol in the blood "is not a good machine."

One person who had some good words to say about the police department was Hugh Robinson who told the audience to let the police do their job.

John Sullivan, State Motor Vehicles Dept. director who handles the implied consent cases, said his staff has been impressed with the "high degree of training and professionalism" exhibited by Lincoln officers.

Former police officer Martin Roach said officers are encouraged to issue tickets and when the number is down, "the sergeant comes around and talks to you."

'Forced Out'

Roach resigned last May from the force after six years on the job. He said he was "forced out" for not writing enough tickets.

The police department's methods of checking out taverns and restaurants which hold liquor licenses was questioned by Sheraton Inn manager Richard Blok. He said officers intimidate customers.

Following the hearing, Bruckner said he believed the hearing served a useful purpose.

Road Fund Change Eyed

Washington (AP) — The Ford administration will propose legislation to pare down the amount of money funneling into the highway trust fund and to extend the life of the fund indefinitely, sources said Thursday.

The legislation already has been drafted and will be sent to Congress within two weeks. The sources said President Ford will announce some details of the program in his budget message Monday.

The legislation would commit the federal government to continue the highway trust fund indefinitely although the bill itself would cover appropriations only from 1977 through 1980.

It proposes using money from the trust fund to finish the interstate highway system and then to maintain the roads.

Although the Ford administration predicts funds available for building the interstate system will increase under its proposal during the next four years, the increase is slight and may not speed up the timetable for finishing the interstate system by much, if any.

Congress already has authorized $3.25 billion for interstate work in 1977. The Ford legislation would increase that appropriation to about $3.4 billion in 1977 and to $3.7 billion by 1980.

The legislation proposed by the Ford administration would divert a large proportion of the taxes that now go into the highway trust fund into general revenue funds.

The trust fund would be used only to complete and maintain the interstate highway system. All other roads would be funded out of general revenues.

The legislation would place the highest priority on completing interstate routes between cities.

The Federal Highway Administration says about 84.8% of the 42,500 mile interstate system is open to traffic but only 26.5% — or 11,262 miles — is complete or essentially complete. The earliest completion date now is set in the mid-1980s.

Currently all revenues collected from the 4 cents per gallon tax on gasoline and diesel fuel plus revenues collected from taxes on automotive products such as tires flow into the trust fund.

Under the legislation, only one cent of the gasoline tax, three cents of the diesel fuel tax and the user and excise fees would go into the fund.

Rice Case To Be Taken To Supreme Court

By The Associated Press
The case of David L. Rice, convicted in St. Louis for the murder of an Omaha policeman, will be taken to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Eighth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis has upheld a lower court decision, by Judge Warren K. Urbom of Lincoln, which ordered that Rice be re-tried or released.

In July, Urbom held that dynamite and dynamite particles used as principal evidence in the trial were taken during an illegal search and should not have been admitted as evidence.

A Douglas County District Court jury convicted Rice and Edward Poindexter in 1971 of the murder of Omaha policeman Larry Minard. The State Supreme Court upheld the conviction in 1972.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Mel Kammerlohr said the state would ask the Eighth Circuit to grant a stay of judgment pending the outcome of the Supreme Court's decision on whether to hear the case. Kammerlohr said the state had 90 days to file the request for Supreme Court review, and that the high court could take up to six months to decide whether to grant the request.

If the U.S. Supreme Court refused a review, the Eighth Circuit order would come back to Urbom, who would set a date by which the decision on whether to re-try Rice or release him would have to be made.

The crux of Urbom's decision was that police did not have probable cause to search the house where the evidence was found.

The Eighth Circuit agreed that the affidavit used by Omaha police to get the search warrant was insufficient to establish probable cause. The court said testimony by police showed they were "acting on nothing more than a hunch or random guess."

In Omaha, Douglas County Atty. Donald Knowles said he hoped the U.S. Supreme Court would grant the request for review, but noted that if it did not "We'll have to determine if we are in a position to re-try the case."

Knowles said that decision would have to be made after "a complete review of the evidence remaining to us."

Omaha attorney David Herzog, Rice's lawyer, was unavailable for comment on whether efforts would be made to free Rice pending the appeal. Urbom denied a request for bail following his July decision. Rice, 26, is in the Nebraska Penitentiary.

Legislature Rejects Carpenter's Challenge

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The continuing saga of Terry Carpenter's challenge of the election of Sen. William Nichol of Scottsbluff moved Thursday from the Legislature to the threshold of federal court.

His challenge dismissed by a 30-18 vote of the Unicameral after a dramatic three-hour debate, Carpenter said he will march on to U.S. District Court in Lincoln.

"The question is 'Can the legislature disfranchise the voters?'" he said. Carpenter first took his election contest to the Scotts Bluff District Court, but it was dismissed for alleged lack of jurisdiction.

The Legislature dismissed it Thursday, holding that Carpenter's failure to post a bond within 10 days of his protest wiped out its jurisdiction over the issue.

Evidence Unexamined

"So far, nobody has looked at the evidence," Carpenter said. "I've got to find somebody who will look at the evidence."

Carpenter contends that Nichol's 68-vote victory, fashioned in a state-supervised recount of Carpenter's original three-vote election, should be overturned by the valida-

NICHOL IMPASSIVE . . . as Chambers speaks of Carpenter's 'ominous presence.'

Carpenter's one million dollar bond filed with the District Court in Scottsbluff on Dec. 4 may satisfy bond law requirements, DeCamp suggested, at least until a new bond is requested.

Although supporters of the Warner motion talked about the bond law, Chambers said, the true issue for most senators is Terry Carpenter.

His "ominous presence" has loomed over the Legislature, "striking terror into the hearts of some," Chambers said. "No man should be held in such awe."

In dismissing the challenge, Chambers said, the Legislature has "exalted form over substance," ignoring "the fundamental right of citizens to vote" and elevating the bond statute above "the fundamental law of this state . . . the constitution."

The constitution requires the Legislature to consider and judge the contest, Cavanaugh agreed.

"There is no obstruction that this body can devise to overcome that (constitutional) requirement," he said.

His voice rising, Cavanaugh said the Legislature "will be diminished" by its dismissal of the contest before it even considers it.

"This Legislature will be less than it was before this day began and that is a great tragedy for each man who sits here."

Sen. Ralph Kelly of Grand Island contended that the bond statute must be met or the Legislature would substitute "rule by men (for) rule by law."

Senators would "ignore our oath to abide by the laws" if they ignore the statute, Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings said.

"The law is there staring us in the face. It may have been the Legislature which 'missed a step' when it did not ask for a bond before the challenge was accepted, Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood suggested.

"The Legislature has stopped short of its (constitutional) mandate" to consider the contest, Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln argued.

"We should proceed to a complete consideration of the facts . . . then let us render a decision."

The Legislature's focus on the bond statute is a case of "tunnel vision," Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha declared.

Cavanaugh's effort to amend Warner's motion to declare that the Legislature would proceed with the contest fell on a 19-29 vote before the climactic decision. Only Sen. Herb Durs of Gothenburg switched sides on the final count.

Following that decision, Nichol promised to attempt to meet "the responsibility on me to fill this chair."

Nichol drew praise from both sides for his behavior during consideration of the contest. He refrained from voting on either of Thursday's motions.

Communist Document Says '75 Turning Point

The New York Times
By JAMES M. MARKHAM

Saigon South Vietnam — A document that is reportedly guiding the Communists' current military campaign envisions 1975 as a turning point but not the end of the struggle in South Vietnam.

The document — Resolution 08 of the so-called Central Office of South Vietnam — was drawn up late in 1974, according to the U.S. Embassy, which recently made it available to the press.

There was no way of establishing from independent sources the authenticity of the document but its language and argumentation are similar to those of earlier Communist directives.

In the past, the American diplomatic mission has regularly translated and distributed Communist directives, adding its own interpretive commentaries.

Reds Plan Stepup

The resolution and a companion document from Binh Dinh province clearly indicate that the Communists plan to step up military activities in 1975.

At one point Resolution 08 states: "Our main forces must, on the one hand, engage in combat to wipe out the enemy, hold, expand and improve liberated areas and base areas, attract and hold the enemy in support of the gaining of the population in the lowlands, and on the other, build up, strengthen and improve themselves in every

Kennedy Charges Ford Using 'Scare Tactics' To Get Viet Aid

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) accused the Ford administration Thursday of "threats and scare tactics" in efforts to get additional military aid for Indochina.

President Ford has asked Congress for $522 million to replenish military needs in South Vietnam and Cambodia. Congressional leaders believe there is virtually no chance the funds will be provided.

Leading Republicans such as Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott have said Congress must take the blame if the funds are denied and the two Indochina governments fall.

In a Senate speech, Kennedy said, "We are witnessing once again the administration's annual drama of political rhetoric of threats and scare tactics, about Vietnam and Indochina."

Ford Wants Elderly To Take Heftier Cut In Federal Benefits

Washington (UPI) — President Ford will ask Congress to approve further spending cuts in government aid for older Americans, an administration official testified Thursday.

The aged will be asked to absorb cuts in aid for transportation, meals and other services already approved by Congress, said Stanley B. Thomas Jr. of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Elderly persons already face a proposed cut in food stamp benefits in March and possible watered-down Social Security increases scheduled for July.

Ford sent a message to Congress Thursday asking for deferral of $769 million in ap-

Ag Committee Approves Food Stamp Price Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Agriculture Committee approved overwhelmingly Thursday a bill that would freeze the price of food stamps at their Jan. 1 level for the rest of this year.

The bill, to be scheduled for House action next week, would kill a Ford administration plan to hike the price of the stamps to roughly 30 per cent of the net income of each recipient.

That plan is to go into effect respect in order to get prepared for a large-scale offensive when the need arises."

But the resolution, which speaks of tipping the military balance in the Communists' favor "in the coming years," indicates that the "large-scale offensive" is not planned for this year.

Instead, its anonymous authors foresee a possibility that the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu, weakened on the battlefield, will be "compelled to cling to" the Paris agreement and "implement small parts of it to impede our advancement, save (its) deteriorating situation and sabotage the accord."

Second Possibility

If this does not happen the resolution outlines a second possibility.

"In case they do not want to carry out the accord, and the present war gradually widens into a large-scale one, we again have to wage a decisive revolutionary war."

In discussing favorable factors which it argues permit "the raising of previously set performance criteria intended for 1975 and some ensuing years," the resolution says: "This will constitute a turning point of decisive character, as it will tip the balance of power to our advantage and create very basic conditions that will lead toward the achievement of total victory."

The Binh Dinh province resolution was reportedly delivered to the Saigon authorities by a high-level Viet Cong defector.

"Once again we are hearing the same old arguments and the same old controversies over the same old war."

"The lingering and bloody conflict deserves more of our diplomacy and not more of our ammunition."

Kennedy's statement came after Rockefeller and Scott, in separate statements, said Congress would have to take the blame if the South Vietnamese and Cambodian governments fall, as well as for undermining America's reputation for keeping her moral commitments.

Assistant Senate Democratic leader Robert G. Byrd said "certainly not" when asked if Congress would have to shoulder the blame. Byrd said he was willing to sell South Vietnam and Cambodia equipment.

Let them buy it," he said. "I don't think we have to give it to them."

The Older Americans act provides meals, transportation subsidies and other services for persons 65 and older.

Social Security benefits for more than 30 million aged and handicapped persons are scheduled to increase by 8.7% in July to reflect cost of living increases. Ford has asked that the increase be frozen at 5%.

Clemency Program Extended A Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford extended his clemency program for one month, until March 1, because of heightened interest the White House announced Thursday.

The program in the absence of any presidential action would have died Friday midnight.

At the same time three national groups repeated their call for universal and unconditional amnesty instead of Ford's conditional clemency which involves up to 24 months of alternative service in low-pay jobs.

The National Council of Churches in Special Ministries-Vietnam Generation, the Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors and the American Civil Liberties Union said the program failed to achieve Ford's goal of binding the wounds of war. They predicted it would not succeed in the future.

The White House noted that only about 7,400 of an estimated 137,000 eligible men so far have decided to participate in the program announced last September.

About 3,000 men signed up for the program after the major publicity campaign was launched.

ERA Prediction Made: Victory By April

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of the Equal Rights Amendment launched a new drive Thursday to win ratification and predicted victory by April.

Karen DeCrow, president of the National Organization for Women, flanked by actor Alan Alda and the chairmen of the two major political parties, said a special poster and lobbying drive would be aimed at the 17 states which have not yet ratified the amendment.

The ERA was approved by Congress in March 1972 and has been ratified by 33 states, although Tennessee and Nebraska legislatures have rescinded their ratification.

Ratification requires approval by the legislatures of three-fifths of the states or a total of 38 states. NOW, a principal backer

Big Agribusiness Blamed For Food Prices, Quality

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's economic proposals and big business were targets of criticism Thursday as delegates to the annual conference of the Consumer Federation of America tried to figure out what to do about high prices for food and energy.

Speaker after speaker urged farmers, workers and consumers to get together to break up monopolies or near-monopolies in the food industry. The delegates blamed what they called "vertically integrated agribusiness companies" for rising prices and lower quality.

James McHale, Pennsylvania secretary of agriculture, called for producer-consumer cooperatives to increase competition in the food business. He said he would ask Congress for money to set up such organizations.

"We've done too much talking," said McHale. "We need follow-up action."

Gov. Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin and Sen. James Abourezk of South Dakota, both Democrats, argued that farmers are not to blame for high food prices.

"The American family farmer and consumer are both coming out on the short end of the stick," said Lucey, who claimed that Ford's energy policies would cost Wisconsin dairy farmers more than $600 a year in higher charges for electricity, fuel and fertilizer.

Abourezk urged support for legislation to protect small farmers.

Veterans' Dividends Speeded Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has acted to speed up life insurance dividends of $335.6 million for holders of three Veterans Administration policies to pump needed cash into the hands of consumers.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen announced Thursday that some 25 million veterans will receive these insurance dividends within the next 45 days instead of spreading them throughout the year on the dates of the policy anniversaries.

He said the Veterans Administration estimates that $177.8 million will actually be sent out in the form of checks in the next 45 days. The remainder of the $335.6 million would probably be allocated as credit toward future premiums or to purchase additional insurance, an option which is open to the veterans, he said.

Nessen said the average dividend would range from about $9 for Korean veterans up to an average of $168 for those from World War I, and about $69 for World War II veterans. These are higher than dividends paid last year.

Decision May Jeopardize Bethesda Hospital Future

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

The continued operation of the Bethesda Foundation Hospital (formerly Providence Hospital) may be in jeopardy due to a decision made by the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council (SeNHPC) executive committee Thursday night.

The committee voted to recommend that the project application submitted by Bethesda officials to the Nebraska Department of Health's Division of Hospitals and Medical Facilities not be endorsed by the SeNHPC board of directors.

Following a vote by the board, the SeNHPC's recommendation will be submitted to the State Health Department for use in its review of the project application.

According to SeNHPC executive director, Bill Joern,

"if the state does not endorse this project proposal" the hospital could continue to function.

However, the receipt of Medicare and Medicaid reimbursement would be in jeopardy, thus placing a possible financial burden on the hospital.

The project application was submitted to the State Health Department due to the recent change in ownership of the facility.

Could Continue

Under the terms of the application, the hospital would continue to function primarily as a short-term acute general hospital, with no change in beds or services.

Dick Weatherford, SeNHPC health facilities and services planner, said the executive committee's recommendation was based on the question of need.

"We have a surplus of short-term acute hospital beds in Lancaster County," he said.

And the executive committee recommendation goes on to say that, "The continued operation of the short-term acute beds (at Bethesda) will result in a continued reduction of effective utilization of community resources."

The "other three (Lincoln) hospitals are not running on a large profit margin," Weatherford continued, and the retention of the Bethesda beds "could cost the community." If the Lincoln hospitals experience an increase in vacant beds "they will have to increase their rates."

Apparent Shortage

Weatherford also noted that although "there currently is an apparent shortage" of long-term beds, plans being developed by the Madonna Professional Care Center and the Homestead Nursing Home, will, if realized, alleviate that shortage.

Thus, if Bethesda officials agreed to convert some of their acute care beds into long-term beds at some future date, there is a danger that "we will be over-bedded" in this area as well, Weatherford said.

The committee's recommendation — which was based on research done by a SeNHPC project review task force — also states that, should a need for additional acute care beds arise, "Lincoln General Hospital has the capacity to finish off up to 176 beds that could be accommodated in the top two floors" of its plant.

Additional Reasons

Additional reasons for withholding endorsement, as stated in the recommendation, include:

—The fact that, during the past few years, the hospital had the highest average (patient) days stay of the four hospitals in Lancaster County.

—The utilization of the 37 long term care beds at Bethesda Hospital has undergone a significant reduction.

Speaking on behalf of the project review task force, task force chairman Lloyd Worley said the Bethesda Hospital should be "encouraged to study ... alternative uses of the existing facility."

He also asked that SeNHPC "staff time be allocated to assist the administration and board of directors of the hospital in this endeavor."

Special Investigator Asks People To Come Forward

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Police special investigator James Bruckner urged Lincolmites Thursday night to come forward and tell their stories to aid him in his probe of the police department's enforcement of the drunk driving laws.

A direct telephone line has been set up to take citizens' calls. The number is 473-6289. Bruckner said a secretary will set up appointments for confidential interviews.

Closed To Public, Press

The City Council and Bruckner decided to close those interviews to the public and the press.

Bruckner explained he believed the investigation would be "less inhibited. And we stand a better chance at gaining the truth," he said.

Bruckner was hired by the City Council to investigate charges of police harassment and numerous other charges leveled against the police department's policies and procedures in enforcing the drunk driving and public intoxication laws.

The council directed that Bruckner's report be submitted no later than April 1. The council said it will make public the entire report, including all testimony given to Bruckner, plus Bruckner's recommendations.

Names May Be Omitted

However, names will be omitted in the final report where request by citizens. Bruckner promised.

Bruckner, a prominent trial attorney, laid out the ground rules for the investigation:

— All witnesses will be interviewed under oath, in the presence of a court reporter.

— All testimony will be recorded, with only Bruckner, a court reporter and a secretary knowing the names, if so requested.

— Most interviews will take place at night in the City Council office on the first floor of the County-City Building.

To Meet Outside City Hall

However, Bruckner said he will meet outside City Hall with complainants if they feel inhibited about testifying in the public building.

Since many of the interviews will take place at night in the County-City Building, the council authorized Bruckner to station someone at the building's front door to admit people wishing to testify.

That procedure was established after Councilman Max Denney pointed out that the building is locked at night and the only way to enter the building is by signing in at the police department.

Bruckner acknowledged that one of the problems he will have to overcome is trying to get people to come in and tell their story.

"People, for various reasons, are reluctant to come forward because they feel they'll be hassled in the future (by the police)," he said.

To Interview Police

Bruckner said he will begin interviewing police officials Monday and will spend the major part of next week soliciting testimony from officers.

Bruckner said his final report will include a report on police policies and procedures and his recommendations.

A fact sheet setting forth the outline of the investigation will be available at City Hall.

To aid him in his probe, the council agreed to pay the salaries of a secretary and law clerk, both currently employees of the city law department.

The council will pay Bruckner a $50 per hour fee. He will submit weekly financial statements to the council.

Two More Arrested In Big Drug Roundup

North Platte (UPI) — Two more persons were arrested here Thursday in connection with a 2½-month investigation into illegal drug traffic. That brought to 23 the number arrested this week.

Timothy Wallen, 19, of McCook and Frank Davis Jr., 23, of Hershey were charged with distribution of a controlled substance and aiding and abetting the distribution of controlled substances.

Bond was set at $3,000 each during their arraignment in Lincoln County Court Thursday morning.

Also arraigned Thursday were three men arrested Monday in Lincoln on warrants issued in

Hearsts Still Hope Daughter Gives Up

San Francisco (UPI) — The parents of fugitive Patricia Hearst, whose kidnapping a year ago triggered one of the most bizarre cases in American criminal history, said Thursday they still hope she will surrender.

"The hardest thing Mrs. Hearst and I have to bear is not knowing whether Patty is alive and well," Randolph A. Hearst said in a statement issued five days before the Feb. 4 anniversary of her kidnapping from her Berkeley apartment.

"We believe she is alive and in this country, but since the last tape we have had no word of any kind. However, we do have hope — hope she is well and hope that she will eventually decide to come in voluntarily and stop being a fugitive."

Miss Hearst, 20, was last heard from June 7, in a tape recording left at a Los Angeles radio station. She is wanted on nearly two dozen federal and state criminal charges, including bank robbery, kidnapping and assault.

"I don't believe she would be sentenced to a jail term, although she might have to face more than one trial, and the experience would undoubtedly be unpleasant," Hearst said.

"The only thing we want is that she be able to live her own life as a free woman and not go on indefinitely hunted by the police."

Miss Hearst, the granddaughter of publishing empire founder William Randolph Hearst, was kidnapped by a small terrorist group which called itself the "Symbionese Liberation Army." Two months after the kidnapping, she made the stunning announcement in a tape recording that she had chosen to join her captors.

Law Students To Get Chance In Local Courts

Low income Lancaster County residents may receive legal help a little sooner if a new program begun by the Legal Aid Society and the University of Nebraska at Lincoln (UNL) College of Law is successful.

A Clinical Legal Education Program, begun last week, will allow senior law students to represent civil cases in local courts, supervised by the college's clinical professor. Students, in turn, will receive academic credit for their work. Six students are now in the program.

Hung Up On A Lower Rung

Just before lunchtime Thursday Terry Carpenter's contest of the 48th District election was thrown out on a technicality by a Legislature which did not want to miss one rung on the ladder. It is a commendable thing to want to be so thorough and we expect that this Legislature will apply that measure throughout all its deliberations.

But it is a sad day for the Legislature itself, the people of the 48th District and the entire state that the Legislature did not want to reach the top of the ladder in its attempt to determine who rightfully should represent the people from that panhandle district.

The Legislature did not exhaust all its options. It did not look at the evidence. It used a legally defensible argument to stop short in its endeavors — too timid or too tired to go on and most certainly all too willing to shut the door on the dominant personality in Nebraska politics.

After the votes to dismiss the contest were taken, Sen. William Nichol, the declared winner of the election who was seated pending the outcome of the challenge, rose to comment on the rigors of facing Terry in an election. And he wanted to thank "those who worked for me and those who worked against me" in the matter of the challenge. By those words Nichol affirmed for all to appreciate what the contest was all about. It was not a matter of law as much as a matter of personality and that personality was Terry Carpenter — just one old man who, to use Sen. Chambers' words, "strikes terror" into the hearts of his peers.

That the shadow of Carpenter extended from Scottsbluff across the length of this state to cover — perhaps smother is a better word — the senators in Lincoln is obvious.

A Bottomless Pit

President Ford is asking Congress for an additional $300 million in military aid for South Vietnam and an extra $222 million for Cambodia for this fiscal year to go with the $700 million and $200 million Congress has already approved for Saigon and Phnom Penh respectively.

Congressional leaders are cool toward the request for more money and have told the President so, but he is pitching for it with everything he's got. If things get desperate enough for the administration, Henry Kissinger might even throw a tantrum and threaten to quit.

Ford says there will be a "disaster" in Whose cause could have evoked such feverish, impassioned defense of the letter of the law? Who else could have forced the Legislative majority to defy the fundamental commands of the state constitution and ignore the overriding need that the principle of popular election be upheld? What other issue could have sent the lawmakers scurrying into memory to find strength and encouragement and justification in great literature and the Bible? And who else could have made some of them cower in their chairs, unmoved by argument, but smug in the knowledge that someone had found a loophole through which they could vent their frustration and contempt?

It was Carpenter, not law or principle, that mattered in the end.

And although he lost the round, Carpenter still wrought from the Legislature one of its best performances to date.

Especially convincing in arguing to drop the challenge were Sens. Kelly of Grand Island, Murphy of South Sioux City, Marvel of Hastings and Warner of Waverly. Forceful in their arguments in favor of examining all the evidence were Sens. Chambers and Cavanaugh of Omaha — those two eloquent beyond comparison — Luedtke of Lincoln, DeCamp of Neligh and Schmit of Bellwood.

Those who spoke, spoke well and sincerely, we believe. But the pity is, we suspect that many of those who did not speak had made up their minds a long time ago and for reasons far different than the noble propositions put forth Thursday.

Carpenter and those in the 48th District who thought they voted for him were effectively denied a fair hearing almost from the very start.

South Vietnam if his request for an additional $300 million is not approved.

Can $300 million at this stage of the game avert a disaster?

Not likely, since the U.S. was spending over $20 billion per year on South Vietnam at the height of our involvement in the war and yet Thieu's regime at this time is still at the edge of the abyss.

It is a bottomless pit. Approval of another $300 million would only whet the appetite for more dollars.

If $300 million would bring peace to Vietnam it would be worth it. But experience says that it won't. What makes Ford and Kissinger think that it will?

WILLIAM SAFIRE

Mayday And Playboy

WASHINGTON — In May, 1971, the hard core of the militant protesting set descended on the nation's capital, determined — as its leadership put it — to "stop the government" by bringing auto traffic in Washington to a standstill.

These rioters were not gentle souls carrying candles, but largely the toughs and crazies who marred the peace movement. As they proceeded to slash tires, terrorize motorists and pedestrians, and roll cans of garbage into the streets, the District of Columbia police moved to prevent anarchy.

Unlike the reaction in Chicago in 1968, there were no police charges to crack skulls, nor was there any panicked use of firearms as in Jackson State or Kent State. Instead, the District of Columbia police rounded up some 14,000 of the rampaging terrorizers and made them guests of the city in a football stadium overnight.

The real threat of mob rule had been averted with a minimal application of force. The civil liberty of the law-abiding citizen to walk on a public street or drive to work had been protected.

However, in making "mass arrests," the police had infringed upon the civil liberties of the demonstrators. Under our system, arrests for other than individual acts are wrong; a man cannot be jailed for what the man next to him in a crowd may have done, (unless we apply the conspiracy statutes). Quite rightly, the local courts threw out the arrests as illegal and the Mayday tribe went home, never to be heard from again.

Until now, not content with the way the police had protected the civil liberty of most Washingtonians and the courts had then protected the rights of these mass-arrested, the American Civil Liberties Union, sued the taxpayers of Washington for damages to those arrested, and one of our sensitive local juries just popped for $12 million.

Twelve hundred of the demonstrators will now each receive about $10,000 each for the indignity suffered and former full-time demonstrators all over the country are coming out of the woodwork to make their claims. This decision, unless reversed on appeal, will turn justice on its head.

But no editorial cannons boom; since the forces of "repression" are trounced, the award of $10,000 to each of these participants in an effort to plunge a city into anarchy is met with equanimity. Who dares to short-change the new heroes? They came to bring a city to its knees, and were denied that indulgence; for their trouble, they are to be paid at the daily rate of an Onassis.

Ah, says the A.C.L.U., but think of the principle: Local governments will quail before making any more mass arrests. That is simply not so. If the forces of law erred, as they undoubtedly did, official reprimands ought to have been sought, new regulations to meet such a situation proposed and debated. But that would have required hard legal and political action.

If it is difficult to punish the law, and unpopular to punish the provocateurs of repression, who is there to punish? The answer is clear: the taxpayers.

The local citizen in the District of Columbia, who was forced to endure a night of terror, now must pay for the entertainment in $12 million out of the general treasury to a group of those who threatened that terror. Perhaps the protesters' payoff — Mayday's payday — can be squeezed out of day-care centers or policemen's salaries.

Civil liberty cannot stand many more such victories that stand justice on its head. The A.C.L.U., quick to defend the fashionably disreputable, is slow to react to the clear and present danger of "the new torture," far more important to the cause than yesteryear's demonstrations. Which takes us from

"Mayday" to "Playboy."

Recently, a woman employee of Playboy Publisher Hugh Hefner was convicted of a drug offense and given a "provisional sentence" of 15 years. If she had told the prosecutors what they wanted to hear — obviously, by involving a prime publicity target — she would have been treated leniently. If not, she faced a lifetime in jail on a minor charge and a first offense.

What clearer invitation to perjury can there be to such a "provisional sentence"? It is one thing to give a cooperative witness a break, entirely another to threaten to let a defendant rot in the slammer until he or she tells the store the prosecution wants. Gets results; sometimes gets the truth; often gets higher-ups, gets prosecutors fame and fortune; and is getting more popular these days.

The woman who worked for Playboy, Bobbie Arnstein, committed suicide under the new torture. We don't know all the facts in that case, but in terms of relevant principle, isn't it more important for the A.C.L.U. to try to stop increasing use of a modern rack by prosecutors and judges across the nation than to belabor the point about mass arrests that the courts made cogently four years ago?

Some sense of proportion is needed. Protecting the right to protest is necessary, but carrying it to the extreme of lavishing great bundles of the public's tax money on aggrieved protesters is an excess of zeal that is against the public interest.

In the Mayday case, civil libertarians won their case and justice has miscarried. In the Playboy case, civil libertarians have not even come to grips with what the case is about, as justice again miscarries. Perhaps the jubilant young lawyers who ripped all the rest of us off for $12 million should give that some thought as they seek to press money into the hands of the crew who came to slash a tire for peace.

RONALD REAGAN

CALIFORNIA — In many parts of the country, organized labor is working around the clock to unionize civil servants. In some states, collective bargaining by public employees has been legalized. In others, such as California, legislation is pending. If the unions succeed, the effects will be profound.

Promoters of this legislation claim that government employees without the right to strike are second-class citizens. Are they? The answer lies in an examination of the nature of the Civil Service system. Foremost, public employees have job security that goes beyond what the private sector provides.

Their boss can't sell out to another company or get old and decide to close up shop and retire. A new invention can't wipe out the market for their product. And the boss can't go broke and declare bankruptcy — he just asks for more taxes.

Public employees are protected against being fired for private reasons. Promotion is based on merit, and the pay scale is required by law to be at least in line with the private sector's. If a government employer doesn't abide by the law, the employees can take their case to court.

Although the right of private sector workers to organize and

Public Employees And Strike Rights

"A strike of public employees manifests nothing less than an intent on their part to prevent or obstruct the operations of government until their demands are satisfied. Such action, looking toward the paralysis of government by those who have sworn to support it, is unthinkable and intolerable." — F. D. R.

strike is almost universally recognized, fundamental differences between the private and public sectors argue against public employees having the same right. The strike, after all, is a test of economic strength.

The worker withholds his services, management shuts down. The worker gambles on losing some wages against his employer's ability to halt production and risk the loss of customers to competitors. Government, though, can't shut down its "assembly line" for it's a monopoly.

When sewage workers in San Francisco struck last year and hundreds of millions of gallons of raw sewage spilled into the bay, the people of the city couldn't choose to use another sewage system. When your house catches fire, you can't turn to the Yellow Pages to find a substitute for the fire department. The same holds true when teachers or garbage collectors strike.

In the case of public employee labor relations, "management" consists of men and women elected by the public. Both labor and management, therefore, are employees of "the people."

Management, being made up of elected officials, can't have any power beyond that voluntarily granted by the people.

Some proponents of public employee strikes propose to resort to binding arbitration to settle disputes. Yet, if "management" is beholden directly to the electorate, how can it delegate to non-elected individuals or groups the responsibility of making decisions which might result in tax increases?

Any governmental body that doesn't have adequate procedures for hearing employee grievances should institute them. Employees and other voters should make sure their elected officials do so.

On the other hand, there is a need for statutes that clearly prohibit strikes by public employees.

In some states, "case law" resulting from court decisions outlaw such strikes, but the lack of statutory laws has been interpreted by some union organizers as an invitation to strike. With clear laws in hand, elected officials can deal quickly with public employee strikes by declaring the jobs vacant and hiring new employees.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, one of labor's favorite presidents, said it all: "... a strike of public employees manifests nothing less than an intent on their part to prevent or obstruct the operations of government until their demands are satisfied. Such action, looking toward the paralysis of government by those who have sworn to support it, is unthinkable and intolerable."

"Think Of It As Your Contribution To General Thieu"

MARQUIS CHILDS

The Cruellest Hoax

WASHINGTON — The Ford switchback system, giving with one hand and taking away with the other, works its cruellest hoax on those least able to bear the burden.

The President proposes to raise the price of food stamps going to 17 million persons at the lowest income level. The benefits they would get from a tax cut or perhaps from income payments would be wiped out by a rise in the cost of the stamps.

This food supplement makes the difference, particularly for the elderly, between existence and something like starvation.

The rapid increase in the number of eligibles under a careful screening process is a measure of the deepening recession. The jump was nearly two million in December and the curve is steadily upward.

The President has ordered that across the board each person must pay 30 per cent of his or her income for food stamps. To be eligible, a household of four must have a monthly income of under $513 and resources of whatever kind of less than $1,500.

The screening process involves so much paper work in state-administered plans that many who might be eligible do not try to qualify. Possibly another 15 million could qualify and under the pressure of rising costs for rent, heat and the other necessities of life the list is certain to grow.

Currently, the poorest recipients pay as little as 5% of their income while the average is 23%. The President's proposal would save $650 million in the next fiscal year and $325 million in the remaining months of the current year.

For all the red tape in determining eligibility, the plan is essentially a simple one. An eligible family of four buys $154 worth of food stamps a month. The price paid, 25% of income, represents a bonus of perhaps 10 to 15%. The stamps are taken to the grocery store where they are given for whatever food the recipient chooses just as though they were money.

Even with the bonus provided by the stamps, a family of four must spend an estimated 40% of income for food.

And no one can pretend that this puts a nutritionally adequate diet on the table. Only 10% at this bottom level get a sufficient diet.

The increase to 30% ordered by the President will go into effect on March 1 unless Congress acts before that time. Sen. George McGovern, whose Committee on Nutrition led the way in exploring hunger in America, has put in a bill to hold percentages of income at present levels with the maximum charge reduced from 30 to 25%. The measure has 45 co-sponsors including Sen. Hugh Scott, the minority leader, and several other Republicans.

Specialists who should know estimate 30 million to 40 million persons are hungry in America. But we hide our hunger. It is an old man or an old woman rifling a garbage pail or buying a can of dog food which will be made to last for two or three meals.

Hunger in pregnant women and infants is seen in birth defects including mental retardation that will be a life-time handicap. Something is being done about this last through a government organization called Women, Infants, Children. Supplemental feeding is being provided under careful medical supervision for 635,000 women and children.

The origins of President Ford's proposal to boost the cost of food stamps to the poor are cloudy. The tendency is to blame that popular villain, Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, whose department has the say-so on food and nutrition. A candidate given credit by those in the know is Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget. But the President took it and short of action by Congress his order will prevail.

LB 23 Not Realistic

Lincoln, Neb. As I see it, the bill to toughen Nebraska's rape law (LB 23) if passed in present form would give women complete control over men. Since it proposes that a woman's testimony that she had been raped would not have to be corroborated by physical evidence or other people, in essence it would give the woman's word total priority over the man's word in court.

Pity the falsely accused man who could not corroborate his whereabouts at the time of the alleged incident. What other type of crime could result in a conviction without proof that a crime had actually occurred?

I do not want to hear that no woman would ever falsely accuse a man of rape. The Star recently reported an incident where an 18-year-old woman had told police that she had been raped at knifepoint by a young black male. A week later The Star reported that she had confessed that the entire incident was a hoax. What was her motive? Who knows? One thing is certain: She will not be sent to prison for 20 years.

This woman's name was omitted from both articles, so SHE had nothing to lose. If she had accused a specific man, his name would have been smeared all over the newspaper and his life would have been ruined even if he had not been convicted.

LB 23 should be more realistic by at least requiring physical evidence. Or maybe a statute to forbid women to tantalize men with their mini-skirts, bare midriffs, see-through blouses, etc.

Political Squabbling

Lincoln, Neb. The Lancaster County Democratic Executive Committee, after making the decision to support the wishes of the voters in the county commissioner controversy, would like to make clear that the political persecution of Frank Golden, county treasurer, by the Lancaster County Republicans must stop.

Mr. Golden was clearly the voters' choice despite the innuendoes thrown at him during the campaign. Mr. Golden has not tried to cover up or excuse the alleged misdeeds of his former employee and has expressed a sincere desire to comply with the recommendations of the state auditor. He should be given the chance. There has not been any evidence presented that would impugn Mr. Golden's integrity in the way he has acted as county treasurer. His years of excellent public service should not be negated because of an incident which he himself reported to the state auditor and county attorney in September, 1974.

As party officials, we believe we should not play politics with the Colin incident even though the Republicans persist in playing petty politics in attempting to hound Mr. Golden out of office against the wishes of the voters.

We urge our Republican counterparts to join with us in attempting to bring county government above this sort of political squabbling so that the best interests of the public — Democrat, Republican or independent — can be served.

Police Chief Selection Plan Well Received

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

City Council members reacted favorably Thursday to mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's announcement that he will create a Selection Advisory Committee to interview candidates for the job of Lincoln police chief.

Schwartzkopf said he will set up a five-member panel to interview top-rated candidates for the chief's job. The panel will forward its recommendations to the mayor by June 15.

Schwartzkopf said he will appoint a new chief from that list and submit his appointment to the City Council for confirmation.

Panel's Composition

The committee will be composed of two council members appointed by the council, an unspecified law enforcement administrator, and two lay people selected by the mayor.

Police Chief Joe Carroll announced last weekend that he will resign March 1, creating a vacancy in that post for the first time in 30 years.

Schwartzkopf then appointed Assistant Police Chief Dale Adams acting chief until after the May 6 city elections when the mayor and four council members are up for re-election.

Several council members' concern that they would not have a voice in the selection process was alleviated by the mayor's announcement.

Councilwoman Helen Boosalis said the proposed committee is "what we were looking for."

'Sensitivity Of Position'

Councilwoman Sue Bailey said the mayor's action setting up the committee "shows that he is well aware of the sensitivity of the position."

Councilman Max Denney also said he supports the creation of the selection committee.

After the mayor announced Monday that he had appointed an acting chief, several council members said they would push for formation of some type of selection procedure.

Bailey has been advocating seeking applicants from outside the Lincoln Police Department.

Schwartzkopf said Thursday that he has directed Personnel Director Walt Mitchell to advertise nationally for the position. Cut-off date for submission of applications is April 10.

The mayor took that action despite his feeling that there are a number of qualified officers within the department who could serve as chief. Schwartzkopf has made it known that he favors the appointment of Adams as chief.

However, the mayor said he feels that no appointment should be made until after the spring elections, since the new chief could be dismissed by the newly elected mayor, he said.

Does Have Power

he perspective on the council-mayor debate over the police chief appointment changed dramatically this week when City Atty. Dick Wood said that the council does have confirmation power over the mayor's selection.

Previously, the mayor had said he wanted to keep the appointment out of the political arena and away from council approval.

Schwartzkopf said candidates who apply for the police chief job will be screened and graded on their technical and formal experience and education by the personnel department.

Applicants making that first hurdle then will be interviewed by an oral examining board consisting of the chairman of the Personnel Board, a psychologist and a law enforcement administrator from another city. The mayor will make the appointments to that board.

The five-member Selection Advisory Committee will be called into operation after the May spring elections. The group will review the results of the grading and of the oral test, interview the top-rated candidates and forward recommendations on to the mayor.

Adams Proposes Few Changes

There won't be significant changes in the operations of the Lincoln Police Department when Dale Adams becomes acting chief March 1.

But Adams indicated Thursday that if he is later named THE police chief, there will be some signs of an end to the Joe Carroll era.

Carroll retires March 1. Adams has been considered to be Carroll's protege and apparently has the backing of Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf and Carroll to become permanent chief.

Adams said Thursday if he is eventually named chief he would support creation of a corrections department to operate the city jail and that he would consider rehabilitation programs for prisoners, two subjects Carroll has not endorsed.

Adams also said he would, as acting chief, support a public safety department to oversee police and fire operations, which is one of Mayor Schwartzkopf's pet projects.

Lawsuit Filed Against Guaranteed Foods

Guaranteed Foods, Inc. of Omaha and Lincoln, First National Bank in Lincoln and Postal Finance Co. of Omaha are being sued in U.S. District Court in Lincoln for alleged failure to comply with consumer credit protection laws.

Guaranteed Foods is a home delivery "grocery store," which sells memberships for participation in the program.

The suit was filed by Kenneth E. Herling of Omaha, who asked that it be declared a class action suit in which a decision would affect all who have signed contracts with Guaranteed Foods.

The suit asks that Guaranteed Foods contracts be declared void, that the firm be blocked from collecting money under the contracts and that consumers be awarded double the amount of the finance charge they were assessed.

The suit claims that the finance charge assessed under Guaranteed Foods contracts exceeds the maximum allowed by law and that Guaranteed Foods employees failed to provide information to consumers that is required by law.

Herling signed a "membership sales agreement" with Guaranteed Foods on Sept. 8, was told that it cost about $750 and would allow him to purchase food at reduced prices, according to the suit.

On Sept. 19, the suit claims, Herling received a letter "advising him for the first time" that he had selected First National Bank of Lincoln for his financial needs under the Guaranteed Foods contract and providing him a payment book for his records.

The Herlings also signed a blank "retail installment contract" in a credit transaction for $673.71 worth of groceries, and gave a Guaranteed Foods representative a down payment of $20, according to the suit.

According to the suit, the representative told them he would fill in the amounts and mail it to them. The suit claims that the Herlings did not receive a copy of the contract until after they received the groceries.

That contract, according to the suit, was assigned to Postal Finance Co. of Omaha, who informed them they were to pay a total of $695.88 in four installments. The $20 was not mentioned, according to the suit.

Police Attribute Rare Coins Theft To Three Youths

Police said Thursday that three youths have been turned over to juvenile authorities in connection with the shoplifting of rare coins valued at more than $2,000.

Police said the coins were stolen from the Brandeis Coin Shop over the weekend. A store employee had seen the youths around the coin counters during that time.

One of the coins, police said, was an 1878 silver dollar which had been hollowed out to smuggle opium. It was valued at $1,500.

Cook Firm Is Apparent Low Bidder

George Cook Construction Co. of Lincoln was the apparent low bidder, at $244,368, for the general construction contract to remodel the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Food and Nutrition Building on the east campus.

Other general construction bids opened Thursday include Lindburg Construction Co., $258,400, and Dwight Nelson Construction Co., $258,431. Both are Lincoln firms.

W.R. Lesong Mechanical Contractor had the apparent low mechanical bid, $264,975. Other Lincoln contractors Mechanical Systems Co. submitted a $277,557 bid, and Bee-Jay Plumbing and Heating Inc., $279,627.

For the electrical contract, Electrical Services had the apparent low bid, $99,632, followed by ABC Electric Co., $117,200, and Quality First Electrical Corp., $124,987; all are Lincoln firms.

O'Keefe Elevator Co. Inc. of Omaha submitted the $25,888 apparent low bid for the elevator contract, and Montgomery Elevator Co. of Moline, Ill., followed with $27,388.

Foreclosure Suit Filed Against Omaha Motel

Omaha (AP) — A petition has been filed in Douglas County District Court asking foreclosure against the owners and operator of Larson Motor Inn.

The petition was filed by Republic Life Insurance Co. of Dallas, Tex., first-mortgage holder.

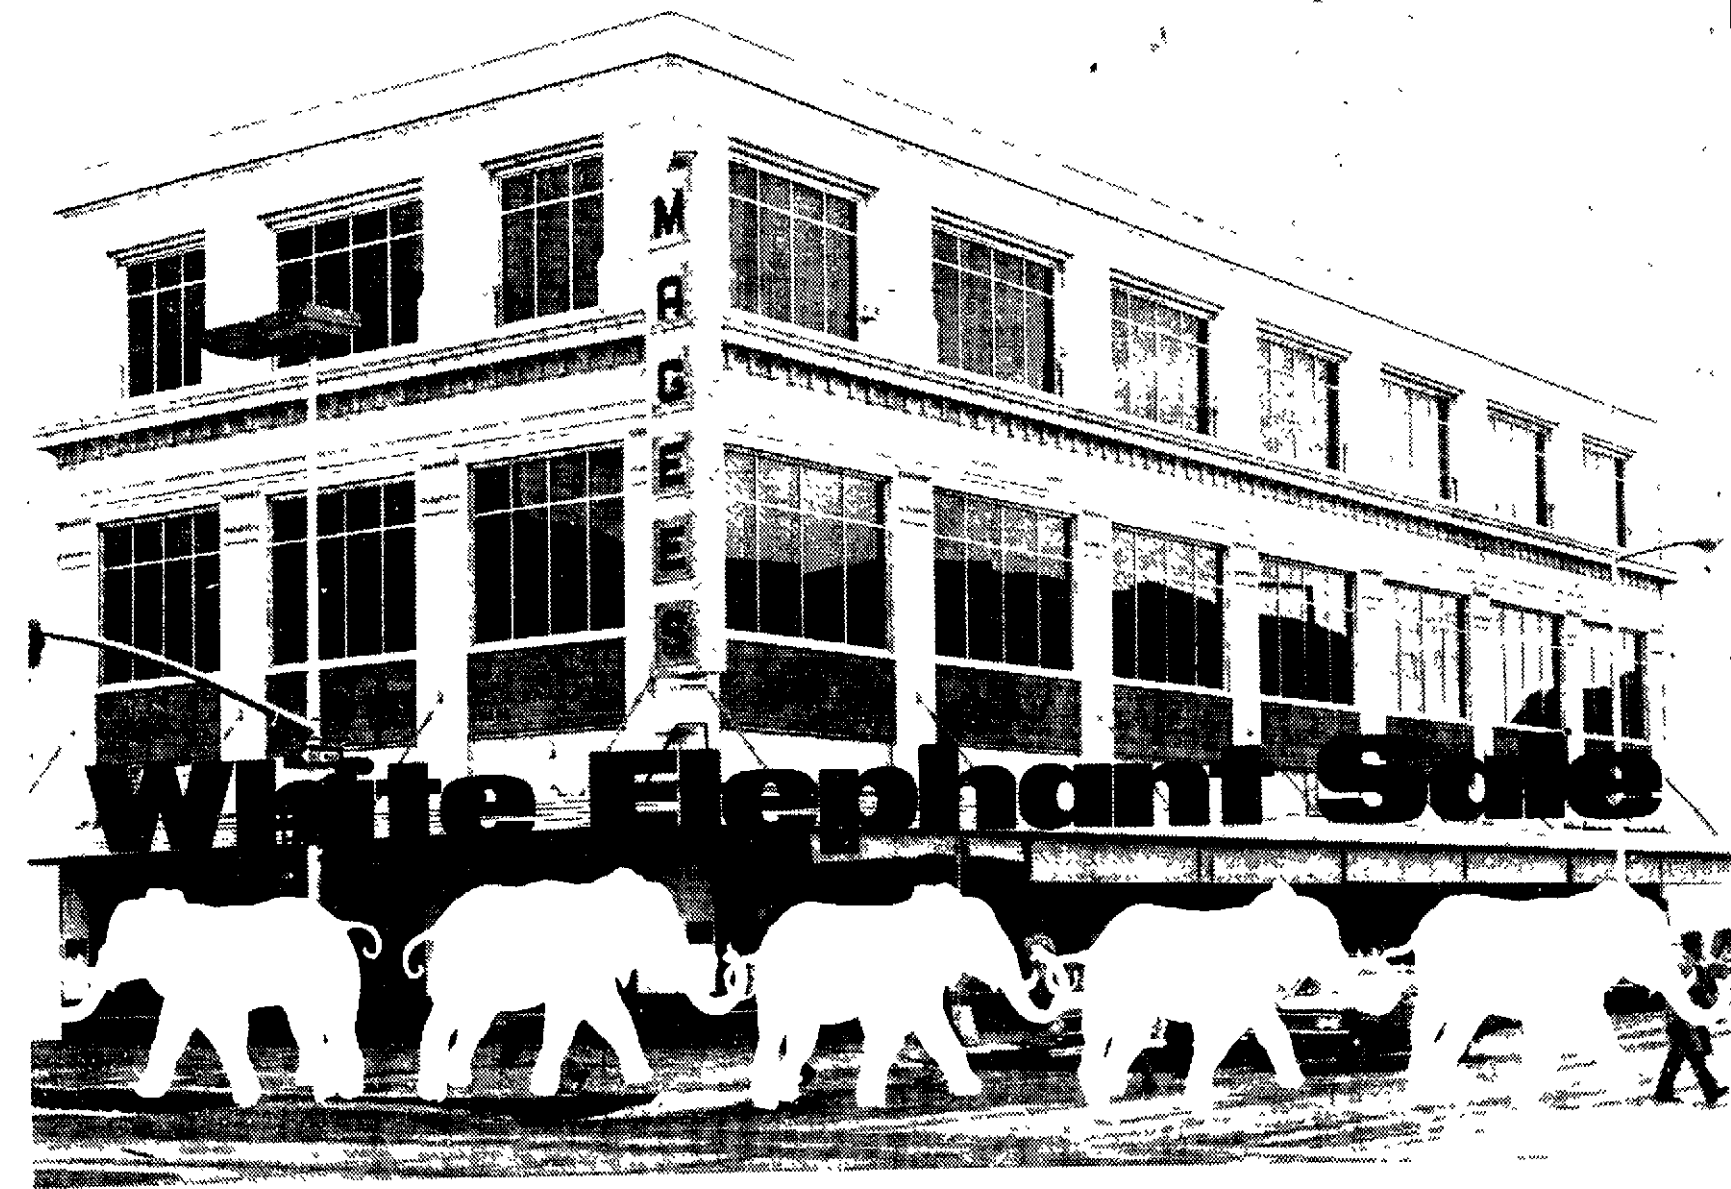

The financially plagued motel has been closed since Jan. 21, when 28 employees walked off the job. They said Larco Enterprises, operator of the motel, owed them four weeks' wages and earlier has paid them with bad checks.

Republic's Omaha attorney, David Lanphier, claimed his client is owed more than $1 million in mortgage payments, interest, delinquent real estate taxes and fees for title search on property.

The petition was filed against Omaha dentist A. J. Sofio and his wife, Agnes; Frank Halda; Westgate Manor Inc.; Nebraska Inns Inc.; Royal Executive Inns of America Inc.; Royal Executive Inns of Omaha Inc.; Omaha National Bank, and Larco Enterprises.

Republic claims the defendants have not paid on the mortgage principal since July and that interest has not been paid since June.

Nebraska Air Gets Dirtier In 1974

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The air Nebraskans breathed in 1974 was dirtier than in 1973. But don't blame just industry for higher levels of dirt in the air.

Old Mother Nature herself, and specifically the drought, has been credited by the State Department of Environmental Control (DEC) with the deterioration in air quality.

The DEC based that observation on its annual inventory of air samplings from 40 locations around the state. Simply the lack of rain, the DEC said, accounted to a large degree for the dirtier atmosphere.

Rain Cleanses Air

Rain cleanses the atmosphere of particulates, those minute airborne particles that cause asthma sufferers to wheeze and newly-washed cars to lose their luster.

The DEC said the summer's long dry spell allowed particulates to build up in the atmosphere past the maximum levels the state and federal government allow.

During the wet spring of 1974, the DEC said particulate levels were generally within the limits set by law.

Levels of sulfur and nitrogen oxides and other gases of man-made origin were well below the particulate levels, the DEC reported.

Schedules Followed

DEC officials said roughly 120 industries whose emissions violate clean air standards are presently following work schedules to clean up wastes. The Lincoln and Omaha metropolitan areas must have emission levels within the standards by July 31. Outstate areas have until July 31, 1976, to meet the standards.

every six days in Lincoln and Omaha and every 12 days elsewhere.

Cozad, which has a number of alfalfa dehydrators, had the highest levels of particulates — 137 micrograms per cubic meter of air. The federal maximum is 75.

Louisville, the site of a cement plant, had a reading of 126 micrograms.

Frederick Cleanest

Cleanest air samples were taken at the Frederick site, 12 miles southeast of the proposed Sutherland power plant.

Heaviest concentrations of carbon monoxide, an emission from automobiles, occurred in Lincoln at 22nd & O St. The DEC said heavy traffic and idling engines at the stoplight accounted for the high readings. New traffic routes are being planned to reduce carbon monoxide levels.

Omaha Ex-Policeman Indicted

Omaha (AP) — A former Omaha policeman has been indicted by a federal grand jury on 14 counts of violating the National Firearms Act.

Morris K. Fanger, 69, was arrested Jan. 17 in a raid on his Reliable Loan and Jewelry pawn shop here. The raid was conducted by agents of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau, U.S. deputy marshals and police. Asst. U.S. Atty. Thomas Thakken said one indictment involves 21 guns, seized in the raid, which were not listed in legally required records. Fanger is free on $3,500 bond.

Ewing Man Fined $500 In Tax Case

Omaha (AP) — U.S. District Judge Albert G. Schatz of Omaha has fined an Ewing steak house owner $500 for alleged violations of federal withholding tax laws.

J. Alex Thrasher, owner and operator of the Two Rivers Steak House, pleaded guilty to four counts of failing to make special deposits of federal taxes that were withheld from employees, as required under the Internal Revenue Code.

The original information filed against Thrasher contained 24 counts.

In addition to the fine, Thrasher remains obligated to pay all taxes not deposited, and all civil penalties determined due as the result of his failure to comply with the law.

Lexington Youths Free On Bond

Lexington (UPI) — Two Lexington youths were free Thursday after posting bonds totaling $7,500. They were charged with assault and threat in connection with an incident last week involving the principal of the Lexington Junior High School.

Kenneth Harris, Jr., 18, posted $5,000 bond and Allen Oustland, 19, posted $2,500 bond. Both entered innocent pleas to the charges in Dawson County Court earlier this week.

They were charged with assaulting Junior High Principal Dave Schley.

Oustland, who allegedly had a section of rubber hose in his hand, was charged with making a menacing threat.

County Atty. Willard Weinhold

said earlier reports that a window of Schley's car had been broken by a crowbar were false.

No trial date was set for Harris and Oustland.

In a related case Chuck Haussler and Danny Lee Tappan, both 17 and from Lexington, were charged with illegal use of a telephone.

They were being held in lieu of $2,500 bond each.

Haussler was charged with making a threatening telephone call to the Schley home early Sunday morning, and Tappan was charged with making a bomb threat call to the junior high school about two weeks ago.

Boxcar Distribution Rule Struck Down

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Supreme Court Thursday struck down the Nebraska Public Service Commission's formula designed to distribute boxcars equitably among grain elevators.

A unanimous court agreed with the railroad's argument that Congress expressly gave the power to allocate boxcars in times of shortage to the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC).

Eric Rasmussen, Public Service Commission chairman, said Thursday's ruling leaves the state's agricultural economy "at the mercy" of the railroads unless the ICC acts.

So far, he said, the ICC has not acted to prevent discriminatory distribution of boxcars.

Writing for the court, Chief Justice Paul White said, "The fact that the power delegated to the ICC has not been exerted is, without legal significance. The fact that the ICC has not seen fit to exercise its authority to the full extent conferred has no bearing . . .

"Interstate Commerce White said, "The movement and assignment of railroad grain cars on the railroads while operating in Nebraska is unquestionably interstate commerce whether the destination is intrastate or beyond the borders of the state."

The commission's rule, which is worded like the ICC's authority, "can only be implemented in such a way as to frustrate, confuse and conflict with the (ICC)."

"Congress intended that the ICC must be left to regulate car service free of any possible state interference," White said.

"For example, if the ICC determined a national emergency existed which required that all available boxcars for shipment of perishable fruit be in some other state, (the commission rule) would clearly frustrate (the ICC's order)."

Effective Use

The court said vesting the power in one agency alone makes sense and is fundamental to the effective use of the power.

The formula required railroads to allocate available boxcars to elevators in proportion to shipment averages for the past three years.

The formula was prompted by complaints from some smaller elevator operators in 1973 that large volume shippers were receiving proportionately more boxcars.

Specifically, the commission charged the Union Pacific with such discrimination.

Rasmussen said that the law which authorizes the commission to mandate a distribution scheme will have to be amended or repealed as a result of the ruling.

Corroborating Evidence In Rape Cases Clarified

By The Associated Press

The Nebraska Supreme Court said Thursday that making a complaint to police immediately after a rape is sufficient corroboration of the victim's testimony to uphold a conviction.

Nebraska is one of the few jurisdictions which requires corroborating evidence for a rape conviction. There have been moves made to do away with the corroboration rule through legislation. Some advocates of the legislation have said they thought a witness was needed for corroboration of the victim's testimony.

The court clarified its position Thursday saying the victim's testimony was enough for a conviction if "within a reasonable time after the alleged outrage she made complaint to a person to whom a statement of such an occurrence would naturally be made."

The case was brought to the court by Michael Castor, who appealed a rape conviction from the Douglas County District Court.

He and two other men abducted a woman from an Omaha street and raped her in the Omaha Public Power District parking lot, according to the court.

In criminal cases Thursday, the court upheld the convictions of:

—Joseph Pappan by the Douglas County District Court for burglary.

—Douglas Temple by the Sheridan County District Court for assault and battery.

—Wayne Manzer by the Douglas

Burglars Sweep Minister's Home

Athens, Greece — Public Order Minister Solon Ghikas, the man responsible for clamping down on crime in Greece, was the victim Wednesday of a spate of burglaries sweeping Athens.

Ghikas, returning home from a late session in parliament, found that thieves had broken into his home and had stolen jewelry and cash, police said.

Couple 'Craft Crazy'

The Lincoln Star 13
Friday, January 31, 1975

By GRACIA McANDREW
Star Staff Writer

The Larry Witts of Lincoln are craft-y... they make 60% of the gifts they give for birthdays and holidays.

The craft craze has boomed because it's fun, because inflation makes it attractive, and because friends and relatives get something personalized.

Included among last year's Christmas gifts made by the Witts of 2425 Cheshire N. were three wastebaskets made from large, paper ice cream tubs which were covered with burlap, trimmed in felt and color-coordinated with each recipient's room.

Mrs. Witt also made several cosmetic bags, calendars, tree ornaments and pin cushions as Christmas gift items.

Christmas Dollhouse

However, one of the Witts' most important Christmas endeavors was the construction of a dollhouse, complete with furnishings, which the couple made for their two young daughters, Lisa, 6, and Lori, 4.

Scheduled to be given to the girls on Christmas 1973, the couple began several months in advance to ensure that it would be done on time.

"We worked on it off and on in our leisure time and evening hours," said Witt. "We made everything from scrap with the exception of dowels we purchased to make the curtain rods."

Some of the odd and end scrap items used by the Witts were unused house paint and scrap lumber for the shell of the two-story dollhouse and 2-by-4 pieces of wood for livingroom and bedroom furniture; the refrigerator, which was completed with electricians' staples for handles; kitchen sink and counter, featuring faucets of screws and bent nails and nail heads for cupboard knobs; and bathroom vanity, finished with a counter top of a Formica sample.

Saves Everything

"I don't throw anything away," commented Mrs. Witt. "I even save toothpaste caps for years and I shop the sales and pick up things I think I might use later."

That Mrs. Witt finds a use for items most people would discard is evidenced by the varied accessories in the youngsters' dollhouse.

They include crocheted carpets, rugs, table covers and pillows; flower vases made from bottle caps or beads; drapes and curtains from scrap fabric; hanging light fixtures constructed of beads and jewelry chains; pictures made from magazine cutouts, mounted on felt; and wall mirrors retrieved from old powder compacts.

"It's not all that fancy," she added, "but in part it was built for durability and to be played with."

"And there is nothing more satisfying than making things for your own children," Witt continued.

The Witts said, however, that people shouldn't force themselves to take up the hobby if they are really not interested. Yet, individuals shouldn't be afraid of trying it, they agreed.

Creativity Satisfying

"You have to enjoy working with your hands," Witt said. "The satisfaction comes from making something — creating something."

"It's true, experience is an important thing, but the only way to get it is to do something."

Besides, Mrs. Witt pointed out that there are always people available to help.

"Several years ago, I undertook carving," Witt said, explaining. "I don't know how much time it would have taken me, if it wouldn't have been for friends in town who saved me by giving me advice."

Witt began woodcarving two years ago, when he became a member of the Central Flyway Decoy Carvers and Collectors Club, of which he currently is president. Since his initial project, Witt has carved five birds, including a prize-winning Ross' Goose.

Mrs. Witt attributes her husband's success to his "exceptional amount of patience and his sense of perfectionism."

Plan Ahead

The key to success in any craft, according to the Witts, is proper planning. In fact, part of Mrs. Witt's planning is keeping an up-to-date, categorized notebook of craft instructions and ideas, which she clips from various magazines.

"Don't hurry or your workmanship will show it. Also, start early or the person (recipient) won't get it," Witt laughingly said from experience.

In addition, and perhaps most importantly, the Witts stressed that craft projects are something the family can do together.

"I stockpiled a lot of things before the girls were born, because I knew one day we'd do crafts together," Mrs. Witt concluded.

Report Doctor, He Sounds Like A Sick Man

DEAR ABBY: Recently, my son and his wife, Vicki, moved to Bakersfield, Cal. Being in a new area, Vicki looked in the Yellow Pages of her phone book to find an obstetrician to confirm her suspicions of pregnancy. She and my son wanted a baby very much. (Vicki is only 19.) What should have been a happy experience for her turned into a nightmare because of an idiot of a doctor.

He asked her if she was financially prepared to take care of a retarded or deformed baby. Naturally, she asked him if he had reason to believe anything was wrong. He said no, but she was so young and immature he thought he'd ask.

Vicki told the doctor that she wanted her husband with her during the delivery so they could share that beautiful experience together. He said, disgustedly,

"There is nothing beautiful about it! It's a lot of grunting."

(Have you ever heard of such talk from a doctor?) He also said he delivered a headless baby to a woman whose husband was in the room, and the husband nearly died.

Abby, this doctor instilled such fears and doubts in Vicki, I could wring his neck. I don't want this to happen to another expectant mother. Is there someone I can report him to?

READY TO EXPLODE IN VICTORVILLE

DEAR READY: Yes. Contact his County Medical Society and report him to the grievance committee. He shouldn't be allowed to practice. He sounds like a very sick man.

DEAR ABBY: Is nothing sacred? Here I am sitting with my boyfriend watching television, when all of a sudden we see a commercial come on for a product that makes me want to crawl under the rug. Good grief! I felt my face getting hot as a poker

Then, a while later, another commercial came on for a medicine to treat a very embarrassing ailment which is not mentioned in polite company.

Where can I write to complain?

RED-FACED

DEAR RED: Regarding offensive TV commercials, write to the Federal Communications Commission Office, 1919 M Street, Washington, D.C. 20554.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been dead for 15 years, but I still consider myself to be MRS. JOHN JACKSON.

My problem is: People still address mail (and especially Christmas cards) to MRS. JUNE JACKSON. This really makes me angry because it is my understanding that until I marry again, I am MRS. JOHN JACKSON.

My sister-in-law, who thinks she knows it all, told me that since John is not living, there is no MRS. JOHN JACKSON. Am I right? Or did women's lib change all that?

WHO AM I?

DEAR WHO: Socially, you are still Mrs. John Jackson. Don't blame women's lib for your sister-in-law's ignorance.

Bridge Practice Your Dummy Play

1. Win the spade with the king, draw trumps and cash the A-K of hearts, hoping to catch the queen. If the queen does not fall, play a club to the ace and return the queen, planning to discard a heart if South follows low. The overall chance of success with this method of play is about 70 per cent.

If you staked your all on simply a heart or club finesse, you would have little more than a 50 per cent shot at the contract.

Note that it is far better to play South for the king of clubs than North. This is because you can trap South's king regardless of how many clubs he has, while if you finessed successfully against North by overtaking the ten with the jack, you would still be unable to catch his king if he had more than three clubs.

2. Basically you hope to win four diamonds, three hearts, a spade and a club, and thus make three notrump. This may be impossible if the cards are unfavorably divided, but careful play will give you an excellent chance.

The first problem arises at trick one. It is best to win the club lead lest North shift to a spade and force out your entry to dummy's diamonds.

Then come the A-K of hearts and A-Q of diamonds. If the queen loses to the king, your worries are over, as you can later enter dummy with a spade and discard your bothersome jack of diamonds on the queen of hearts to unblock the suit. If the diamond queen wins, continue with the jack, which will force out the king if the suit is divided 3-2.

It is important to cash the A-K of hearts early; otherwise, the diamonds might get blocked.

Suit Challenges Nance Co. Board

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

A salary dispute between the Nance County elected officials and the Nance County Board of Supervisors has led to a suit recently filed in the Lancaster County District Court.

The suit, filed by 8 Nance County officials against the 7-man Board of Supervisors, contends that the Board of Supervisors invalidly altered the county officials' salaries and asks that the board be permanently enjoined from making the salary changes.

Plaintiffs in the suit are Richard Shepoka, county sheriff; John Jarecke, county assessor; Amelia Jarecke, county treasurer; Sam King deputy sheriff; Joyce Mason, deputy county assessor; Doris Hardie, deputy county treasurer; Joann Tarnick, deputy county clerk, and Dorothy Ahlers, deputy county clerk.

Defendants are County Board of Supervisor members, Ed Knopik, Wait Steiner, Dean Childers, Louis Dubas, Henry Sysio, Carl Newquist and Vernon Sonderup.

The salary controversy stems from two separate actions by the county board of supervisors.

On December 11, 1973 the board, in a resolution, set elected officials salaries (clerk, treasurer, assessor, attorney and sheriff) at $8,750 for the calendar year 1975, plus an annual adjustment during the term of office based on the previous year's salary. The adjustment is based on the most recent recommended adjustment authorized by the federal Cost of Living Council.

2 Men Held Here Wanted In Kentucky

Police Thursday were holding two men, one of whom is charged with the robbery of the B and R IGA store in Lincoln, in connection with an alleged attempted gangland slaying in Louisville, Ky.

The man charged in connection with the B and R IGA robbery on Monday was Herman Douglas Buckman, 21, of 1938 F. Also charged with robbery was Debra Nelson, of 3146 O.

A preliminary hearing for both persons was set for Feb. 19. Bond was set at $15,000 for Buckman and $3,500 for Nelson.

Police said they learned from Louisville police that Buckman and another man, William Earl Bryant, 20, who had been living with Buckman in Lincoln, were wanted in Louisville in connection with a shooting incident in which three men were injured. Bryant was subsequently arrested.

Police said warrants were being sent to Lincoln in connection with the incident.

Administration Of Housing Rehabilitation Proposal Eyed

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Members of the Community Development Task Force eyed ways Thursday in which to administer a proposed housing rehabilitation program under which 20 houses in the Clinton neighborhood would be remodeled next year.

The debate centered around who should oversee the program and the dollars parceled out to the 20 homeowners.

Suggestions included creating a non-profit corporation, using city staff or contracting with private lending institutions to do the job. No decision was made Thursday.

The 22-member task force already has agreed to the rehabilitation housing program whereby 20 houses in Clinton will be eligible for an average of $4,850 in remodeling dollars.

The task force is considering criteria to use in deciding who gets the money.

The committee is considering:

—Direct low-interest loans to homeowners.

—Direct grant in support of loans to homeowners.

—A combination of direct grants and low-interest rate loans to homeowners.

3% Interest Considered

The interest rate being considered for the loans is 3%.

The city's consultant hired to help formulate the first year community development program is mailing recommended guidelines to Lincoln, Community Development Director Leo Scherer said.

Scherer said department studies show that 154 out of 423 houses in the Clinton Phase I and II areas are in need of some type of repair in order to meet city housing code standards. The Phase I area is bounded by Potter to Leighton, 28th to 33rd, while the Phase II area is bounded from 27th to 33rd, Holdrege to Potter.

The task force has endorsed Scherer's designation of the Clinton neighborhood as the city's top priority next year. The city is expecting to receive $499,000 in federal funds next year.

First Major Step

Community Development officials believe that a city subsidy to pave streets, sidewalks and alleys in the neighborhood will mark the first major step toward upgrading the area.

It is proposed that the city kick in 75% of the cost to pave the streets. The remaining 25% cost would be assessed to the benefited property owners.

Scherer justified the subsidy on the grounds that many of the people living in Clinton are elderly and have low or moderate incomes.

City Council members have questioned whether the city could subsidize such improvement districts in one area of the city and not in others.

In other business Scherer reported that the Meadowlane Community Improvement Association has asked to be included in the task force's plans.

Association President Jack Fields asked the city to consider appropriating federal community development dollars to the Meadowlane area for:

—acquisition of the land on O St. known as Colonial Golf Course —development of the Missouri-Pacific railroad right-of-way as a green belt and bicycle path, and

—creation of a recreation area within the neighborhood

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplana

San Francisco — Off to the witchy houndress on a chill night, a cold half moon in the sky. The houndress is raising hair on my head — something like growing fuzz on a turnip. She has just returned from Mexico. I had her casing the herb market. The early Aztecs used herbs a lot. Cortez was treated by an Aztec herb doctor and felt much better for it. The houndress said "I didn't find a hair-raising potion. But I think I've got something better."

What is "better" is dried boa constrictor. The snake. She said "I bought $7 worth in the Libertad market. It is great for men — something like catnip for a cat. Now it stands to reason that if dried boa constrictor does that for you, it should grow hair, too."

She was all for brewing me up a cup of boa constrictor tea then and there. But I didn't have the courage. Not even when she offered to lace it with rum. It is an actual fact that tea made by soaking dried boa constrictor is supposed to turn you

'Modern' Dance Record Charted After 85 Hours

Bloomsburg, Pa. (AP) — Bloomsburg State College students Sherry Warmkessel and Manny Santayana staggered off their school's gym floor after 85 hours in a "modern day" version of marathon dancing.

Miss Warmkessel of Danville, Pa., and Santayana of Luzerne, Pa., danced to the music of several different rock bands, playing in shifts, from 7 p.m. Friday until 9 a.m. Tuesday. The dancers were allowed 10-minute breaks every hour.

The stunt was staged to raise money for the American Cancer Society. A spokesman said $8,000 in donations was pledged.

The previous record, 74½ hours of continuous "modern dancing," was set in July 1970 in Sussex, England, according to the Guinness Book of World Records. The book also lists a record for "slow dancing" of 22 weeks, 3½ days set in 1933.

Warning Reported

Washington (UPI) Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said he had warned Israeli leaders that the United States might not support them if they launch a pre-emptive strike against the Arab states.

on like a ram in springtime. The hairdresser lady said "There is a lot of iron in snake meat."

But Mexico has outlawed witchcraft. You can find witches' around Mexico. But it's a hard search. They don't like to admit something that could put them in the Mexican moan-and-wail.

The hair-raising lady did bring back a cactus leaf rolled around something that looks like green jello. She said "The lady who sold it to me says it will absolutely take away any scars. You rub it on. In a month the scar will disappear."

She said she saw a man with a knife cut which was healing nicely. He was always getting cut — a bad knife fighter I guess. He kept the stuff in his house like you keep aspirin.

The hair-raising lady said we could try it on me — if I had a scar. Like from an appendix. But I am unscarred. Smooth as a baby. Around the head, too.

Raising hair is not as uplifting. We've been rubbing on a Japanese tree oil that's supposed to put hair on a Chihuahua hairless dog. We've sat under the dryer, wearing caps filled with fine herbs and garlic. I use soap without alkali. I blow my hair out with a hot air comb. Still the Bonnie Fair refuses to sprout like a wheat field in the spring.

The Mexicans who sell herbs at Libertad are on the third floor rear. At one time they were known as 'brujas' — witches.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Friday

Capricorn has an enjoyment of power. On the positive side, these natives handle responsibility with aplomb. Capricorn is where the action is, willing to take a chance, to invest, to speak up to assume the knicks as well as the applause. Capricorn is not always easy to take — but these persons make contributions, help us comprehend basic values and perhaps most important, aid us in an understanding of time. Capricorn is Saturn and deep-rooted concepts. If you own a Capricorn, you probably know better than to attempt to impose your will where career and ambition are concerned. Is it true?

ARIES (March 21-April 19) New approach is in offing but may be premature. Leo Aquarius could figure prominently. Problems may arise in connection with contracts, partnerships, joint enterprises. Be ready for some creative review. You'll understand.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your intuitive intellect is tested. You seem able to discern what is upcoming. Know it and display self confidence. Aquarian is in picture. One who opposes you could make gesture of reconciliation. Be receptive.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) One who means much to you may appear to make unreasonable demands. Key is to maintain personal balance. Relative peace is involved. Intensified relationship is indicated. You may be told some "fall stories." Don't rush to judgment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Pace slows. Details are more important now than in recent past. Aquarius, Leo, Scorpio persons play key roles. Accent is on home, family, property transactions. Some abrupt changes occur in basic lifestyle.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Clash of ideas is on agenda. This is stimulating and constructive. Know it and don't permit exchange to be transformed into common shouting session. Relative peace is involved. Prices, basic values are likely to be in picture. Later, you are flattered by manner of opposites.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Income resources get shock treatment. You find that anticipated costs may have been short of mark. Relative peace is involved. Contradictions. You get more than you bargained for — and key is to hold something in reserve. Taurus, Libra play featured roles.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Be selective. Deal with one who is sensitive, psychic. Cycle is high despite apparent setbacks. One who appears conservative may also be mean. Know it and protect your interests. Stress independent approach. A new start could mark wonders. Take a chance on yourself!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Build organization get priorities in order. What happens behind closed doors could affect your personal destiny. Know it and cover various aspects of project. Capricorn, Cancer, individuals figure prominently. Relative imparts information of value. Analyze it!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Friend could provide exciting possibilities, alternatives. You find out what is worth keeping, what should be discarded. Avoid procrastination. Do what must be done — and do it in positive direct manner. Aries, Libra are involved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Emphasis is on ambition, general prospects and prestige. You get chance to act in more creative, independent manner. What had been capped, it is released. You may be confronted by aggressive person who huris accusation. Remember that those in authority back you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Some of your qualities, natural abilities surge to forefront — to your detriment. Advantage. What has been hidden will be revealed. You are capable now of perceiving friends' cycles. Your ability to communicate is enhanced, intensified. Write, advertise, publish, submit format or concept.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) One responsible for your checks, debts, payments may act in manner which is inadvisable. Be reasonable, but don't turn in your soul to be paid, be paid. There are more options than might be imagined. Know it and it might vary. You'll comprehend.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are dynamic, stubborn and used to being on your own. You seldom go with the majority. You are finishing an important project and August will be your most significant month of 1975. Aquarius, Scorpio and Leo play key roles in your life. You are unorthodox and were separated from parental authority at relatively early age.

SE District Golden Gloves May Be Stutzman's Last

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Ron Stutzman just may bid farewell to amateur boxing following this year's Southeast District Golden Gloves Tournament beginning at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday at Pershing Auditorium.

It will be the classy heavyweight's fifth year of competition and, if he wins, it will be the fourth straight District title he's won — an unprecedented triumph for a heavyweight.

"I don't know, but it sure looks like it will be my last year," Stutzman said. "I'm 24-years-old right now and I'm thinking about calling it quits. I could box one more year, I suppose, but I don't think so."

"Regardless of whether I continue boxing or not, however, I'll still probably stay in the game one way or the other," he said. "That's amateurs, I mean. I have no desire to turn professional. It's too crooked and besides, I've met an awful lot of nice people as an amateur. It's more satisfactory for me in this end of it."

Stutzman has virtually ruled the heavyweight ranks in Nebraska for the last two years, losing in the Midwest last year when he left himself open for one punch that he never recovered from.

"It only takes one punch," Stutzman said. "If you're not ready for it, that one punch can mean the difference between losing and winning. But still, if you go into the ring and try the hardest you can, then no one can criticize you despite the outcome. You know that you've done your best and that's all that counts."

"You know," he continued, "it kind of makes me a little upset when those lighter weight guys keep complaining about having to give up a couple of pounds in their weight class when sometimes a heavyweight has to give up 30 pounds. That's an awful advantage to have to give someone."

Stutzman's thoughts were on his No. 1 challenger, Doug Metzger, who lost on a split decision to Stutzman in the last Lincoln smoker.

"He's going to be good," Stutzman said. "He's one tough Jose and it should be a real good battle for that title."

So far this year, Stutzman has won the Region Six AAU Tournament in Casper, Wyo. and fought his way to a decision win over Ken Marley of the famed Denver Rocks boxing team in Denver, Colo.

"You know," he said, "I've kind of got mixed feeling about this tournament. The S&D Cycle and Easterday Boxing Club are combining together to try and win the team trophy away from the Reformatory and to me, that's kind of bad. I don't think that's really what Golden Gloves boxing is all about. That trophy really means a lot to those guys out there — they work awful hard for it."

Defending 125-pound champion Ray Menefee, going after his third straight title, says he hopes that this year he doesn't win it by being uncontested.

"I've worked awful hard this year," Menefee said. He's been working out seven days a week in preparation for the tournament. "That's a bad way to win a title — being uncontested. But they say the third time is the charm and maybe this year I'll go all the way to the nationals."

"I really don't foresee any great difficulty," Menefee said when questioned about his competition. "I've already beaten my No. 1 challenger, Ken Wilson, twice this year so I really don't see any problem."

"I don't know who I'll have to fight, but I'm ready for any one. I want it awful bad this year. I really do."

Defending 139-pound champion Sam Lewis said he was welcoming the chance for a fight at the tournament because "then they'll have to stop ducking me."

Lewis, known for his knockout power, was still a little upset when he couldn't get a fight on the last boxing card. He charged the T-Dorm coach with failing to let his fighter participate.

"He's got to fight me now," Lewis said about Rancie Irvin. "There's no way about it. He has to fight me if he's in the tournament and I'm really looking forward to it."

"It's kind of discouraging to workout all year long and then not get a chance to fight," Lewis continued. "I want to go all the way through the Midwest this year. This will be my third title if I win, but I've been sick the last two tournaments and had to miss them. I won't miss this one."

"One of the reasons is that I want a good amateur showing because I want to turn professional in a couple of years," he said. "Anything you can learn as an amateur is just that much more advantage for you."

Weights will be held the first day of the tournament from 3-5 p.m. with boxing to begin at 8 p.m. both days of the tournament at Pershing Auditorium.

Ak-Sar-Ben personnel here include general manager Dick Becker, assistant general manager Bob Volk, administrative assistant Bill Murphy, chairman of Ak's racing committee Chuck Durham, Brandeis Food Management supervisor Dick Shonquist and Charles D. Peebler Jr., a member of His Majesty's Council.

Congress Gets Bill On Reserve Clause

Washington (UPI) — Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, predicted Thursday that the new congress will take action on legislation to outlaw the controversial player reserve clause in professional sports.

"It's a new and different congress," Garvey told newsmen at a lunch to announce an NFLPA awards banquet in Washington March 8 at which 28 pro football stars will be honored.

He noted that 14 house members, led by Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, sponsored a bill Thursday which would ban the reserve clause and throw out the Rozelle Rule which is applied when a pro football player finishes out his option and tries to sign with another team.

Seiberling said the reserve clause and other rules and practices by owners of professional teams to confine players to one team "constitute group boycotts and illegal restraints of trade which are violations of the federal antitrust laws."

He said his measure "would prohibit a web of invidious practices which owners and officials of various sports have instituted to prevent athletes from contracting freely for their skills and services."

The Supreme Court ruled in 1972 that it was up to congress to alter antitrust laws to prohibit the reserve clause which St. Louis Cardinals baseball star Curt Flood challenged in a court suit.

Seiberling's proposal would outlaw reserve clauses, which are contained in professional contracts stating that the team reserves the right to a player's services until he is traded or given an unconditional release.

Seiberling said his bill also would outlaw blacklisting or a team refusing to deal with a player who wants to switch teams; the practice of requiring the second team to compensate the first when a player plays out his option and signs with a new team; a standard contract used by all league teams which establish rules a player must comply with before playing with any team; and the practice of giving to a team drafting a new player the rights to the player's services forever.

"The indefensible intention of these rules and practices is to forbid free and reasonable negotiations between players and teams," Seiberling said, "and at the same time to punish owners who dare acquire the property of other owners."

Garvey said he believes the House Judiciary Committee will agree to conduct hearings on the proposed measure and that there will be action on a similar proposal being sponsored in the Senate by Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif.

Identical legislation was introduced in congress last year but never got off the ground as the House Judiciary Committee shelved almost everything but the impeachment proceedings against former President Richard M. Nixon.

"I think things are different this year," Garvey commented. "Things have happened in the courts and elsewhere to focus attention on the problem. I hope there will be hearings which will lead to some oversight of the professional football players' situation and a rational national policy towards pro sports."

The NFLPA and the pro football owners locked up in a six-week strike last year which dwindled out with no contract settlement.

Free Throws Boost East To 44-29 Win

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

The free throw line. It looks easy, but it can sink a basketball team as fast as anything.

Eighth-ranked Lincoln Northeast found that out Thursday night at Pershing Auditorium in a 44-29 loss to fourth-ranked Lincoln East before 5,000 fans.

The Rockets flat-out refused to accept charity. East accepted it. And that, for all practical purposes, was the difference.

The Spartans cashed 16 of 20 free throws. The Rockets hit on only 3 of 13.

Otherwise, the teams were fairly equal. Both demonstrated sound defensive muscle, reflected in 14 turnovers for each team.

Neither managed field goal superiority. East managed to hit only 14 of 41 shots. Northeast hit 13 of 41.

"Everything sort of traces back to that free throw line," acknowledged 26-year Rocket coach Ed Johnson. "We've got to hit those free shots better than that to win."

The Rockets certainly had their chances. They were down only 29-26 when sophomore guard Doug Berka connected from long range with 6:15 remaining in the fourth quarter.

"But right after that we died," noted Johnson, whose team went scoreless during a critical 3-minute stretch as East constructed a 35-26 cushion.

John Selko, the Spartans' 6-4 all-state football lineman, provided most of the offensive spark in the second half after the two teams struggled through a 17-13 first half.

Selko hit all three of his field goal attempts in the third quarter and added a pair of free throws. He contributed three more free throws in the final frame to finish 7 of 8 from the line en route to a team-leading 13 points.

Northeast flashed only one offensive threat — 6-3 senior Gary Reid, who hit 7 of his first 13 shots and finished with a game high 14 points.

The rest of the Rocket cast was shut off by East's aggressive man-to-man defense.

Johnson didn't fault his team's defensive effort either. The Rockets played a box zone with a "chaser" (man-to-man) on Spartan ace Steve Gohde.

It accomplished the mission. Gohde, who entered the game with a 14.4-point average, attempted only two shots and finished with only four free throws.

"I know Northeast used a box-and-one against Norfolk, but we didn't figure they'd hit us with it," admitted East coach Paul Forch.

The defense, Forch added, "is a difficult one to adapt to. You train and develop a pattern all week and a little thing like this can really throw you off."

"We tried six different things to work against it," offered Forch. "We finally went back to our man-to-man pattern to attack. Nothing else seemed to be doing the job."

Forch indicated "the last time I saw a box-and-one was when Kent Reckeweg played for us. He averaged 27 points his senior year and Fremont used one on him."

According to Forch, "we didn't try to free Gohde so much tonight. We just tried to get the ball to the open man. We started getting some good picks there in the fourth quarter."

Forch praised his team's defensive effort. "It isn't often you hold Northeast under 30 points. That takes a pretty good physical effort because Northeast is the most physical team I've ever played."

East raised its record to 6-2 with the important city, Trans-Nebraska and Eastern I-80 Conference victory.

Northeast's record fell to 5-3. The Rockets will try to bounce back Saturday night in a game at Omaha Ryan.

Cage Trouble At Seton Hall

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Seton Hall University basketball star Glenn Mosley, the nation's leading collegiate rebounder, was ruled ineligible Thursday due to recruiting violations.

Msgr. Thomas Fahy, president of Seton Hall, also announced the suspension of head basketball coach Bill Raftery for one month and fined him $650 for his involvement in the recruitment of the 6-foot-8 sophomore who had been averaging 16.3 rebounds per game.

Richie Regan, director of athletics, was suspended for three weeks and fined $500, while assistant basketball coach Horace "Hoddy" Mahon was suspended for two weeks and fined $100.

The suspensions and the ruling against Mosley took effect immediately, Msgr. Fahy said. That meant Mosley and the school athletic officials would miss Thursday night's game against Fairfield at Madison Square Garden.

Acting Athletic Director Melvin Knight said Assistant Coach Chris Kinum would handle the coaching job for Seton Hall until Mahon's return.

The dispute over Mosley's eligibility surfaced recently when it was alleged that he had been recruited. National Collegiate Athletic Association rules say that a student whose high school grades do not predict a 2.0 (C) average in college must sit out his entire freshman year if he was recruited. Last season, Mosley played in 21 games and led his team to its first winning record in a decade.

Msgr. Fahy, who said he was forced into ruling Mosley ineligible by NCAA regulations, said the university would appeal to the governing body and formally request the restoration of Mosley's eligibility. Msgr. Fahy said the school would "pursue the correction of his (Mosley's) unjust sanction through all avenues of appeal." He said he might take the case to court.

Msgr. Fahy said there were three areas uncovered that he considered to be forms of recruitment.

He said Mosley signed a letter of intent with the school on April 18. He attended a Seton Hall basketball dinner in May, 1973, the president said.

He said he also obtained evidence that a meeting was held in the spring of 1973 at Mosley's high school, Irvington Tech, among Mosley's mother, Irvington Tech officials and sports department people from Seton Hall.

"All this evidence led me to believe that Mr. Mosley had been recruited," Msgr. Fahy said.

Although Mosley could transfer to another school and begin playing basketball immediately, Msgr. Fahy said the player advised him Thursday of his desire to remain at Seton Hall.

When asked if the suspension of Raftery could have an effect on his future at Seton Hall, Msgr. Fahy said, "It's difficult to say."

LHS Now Must Sharpen Shooting

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

There's no coverup. Lincoln High basketball coach Alden Johnson openly admits his team has to shoot a great deal better to crack the win column with any regularity.

The Links have played their usual brand of rugged defense, holding seven opponents to an average of 44 points a game.

But their season shooting accuracy is right at 30 per cent and frankly, that doesn't win games in hardly any league.

"We've had the good shots," laments Johnson. "We just haven't been able to put them in. I don't like to ride on the shooting factor." Aldy emphasized before he reluctantly revealed the shooting percentage. "I'm afraid it's gotten to be a mental thing."

Johnson, whose Links play at Kearney Friday night and host Grand Island Saturday night in a Trans-Nebraska Conference game, prefers to accentuate the positive.

"These kids have hustled their rears off," Aldy offered. "They go out and work hard every game. They'll really claw at you."

With the exception of the Omaha Westside game, we haven't been out of a game yet," he added. "We just haven't been able to win the close ones. I'd like to see it change, mainly for the kids. They deserve it."

The Links have managed only one win in seven outings. But that victory was a big one last week, knocking Ralston out of the Class A top 10.

The Ralston game marked the return of senior Mick Houlihan to the lineup. He made only a brief appearance since injuring a leg in a bobsledding accident over Christmas vacation.

"I don't know how much he'll be able to help us the rest of the season," Johnson said of Houlihan, the Links' leading scorer with a 10-point average last season.

Houlihan contributed some key fourth quarter rebounds in the upset of Ralston, "but he couldn't even walk very well" the following night when the Links journeyed to Omaha Northwest, according to Johnson.

The Links hope to get the lid off the basket to challenge in the Trans-Nebraska and Eastern I-80 Conference races down the stretch.

In an intra-city game against Northeast, for instance, Lincoln High finished only 12 of 53 from the field with 29 of those shots chartered inside the key hole.

In Friday games involving Lincoln teams, Pius X hosts Boys Town in a game which will be cablecast by Lincoln's channel 9 starting at 7:30 p.m. Southeast hosts Millard at Johnson Gym 14, then disaster struck the 1-4 Knights again.

A 10-footer and free throw from Pam Koontz, another 10-footer and free throw from Kathy Oswald, a five-foot turnaround from Robin Hruby and free throw from Deb Van Dusen hiked the insurmountable lead to 28-14 at the end of the third quarter.

A 12-foot jumper from JoAnn Griffin ended the second Knight cold streak with 7:31 left in the game.

Southeast hit only 10 of 46 field goal attempts for the game for 21 per cent while Lincoln High converted 13 of 33 fielders for 39 per cent.

Deb Van Dusen led the Lincoln High attack with three of five field goals and four of seven free throws for 10 points.

Lincoln High coach Nadine Sass was obviously pleased with the effort of her girls as they raised their season record to 3-2.

"They're finally getting themselves together," Sass said. "They're starting to play as a team."

Sass credited good board play as a significant factor in the win. "That's what's won us most of our games, the boards," Sass offered. "We haven't really dominated anyone on the boards, but we have been doing a real good job of rebounding."

Sass was a little disappointed her Links couldn't put more points on the board, but she substituted frequently to give her backup players some added experience. "It (the substitutions) probably kept us from scoring very much," she said. "We probably could have scored a lot more if I'd left the starters in."

Southeast was the first team to defense Lincoln High with a "man-to-man" and Sass was also pleased with the way the Links handled it. "I was hoping they would use a man-to-man against us," Sass said. "That's the defense Northeast uses and I wanted to see if we could handle it. It didn't give us too many problems."

Lincoln High also won the reserve game, 37-16.

Humm Leaves Nebraska

A couple of big names among college football quarterbacks were in the news Thursday as the pro football world stopped to study the ramifications of the annual draft

First of all, Dave Humm, who guided the Nebraska Cornhuskers to three major bowls during his career here, has transferred to the University of Nevada at Las Vegas, his hometown, where he will complete his requirements for a degree.

Secondly, the most disappointed quarterback in the nation has to be Tom Clements, who finished fourth in voting for the Heisman Trophy after leading Notre Dame's football fortunes for the last three seasons. He wasn't drafted.

Humm revealed his departure in an exclusive interview on KFOR, Lincoln radio station, just before flying to Las Vegas. Both Humm and Clements said they have never regretted their college choices.

"I wouldn't have wanted to play for anybody else or with anybody else," Humm said. "It's really been an experience, a learning experience."

Some people will try to read something into his decision, but Coach Tom Osborne explained the move will enable Humm to work toward his career goal of a job in public relations in Las Vegas.

Osborne added that he is pleased Humm will be finishing his education, rather than dropping out completely with such a short time to go.

Humm said the decision wasn't a spur of the moment thing. In addition to being at home, the move enables him to be with his wife, who also is from Las Vegas, and to be nearer to Oakland, the team which drafted him on the fifth round Tuesday.

While finishing his degree work, Humm will serve as an assistant in spring drills at UN-Las Vegas, which will enable him to keep in condition for the Raiders' training camp in July.

Clements Eyes Law School

Clements wasn't as lucky as Humm in the draft, but he said he wasn't "overly shocked because I didn't figure to go very high anyway." His size and weight apparently were against him in NFL considerations — 6-foot, 184 pounds.

It is possible Clements could go the same route taken by another former Irish quarterback, Joe Theismann, who also is short and light and went very late in the NFL draft his senior year.

Theismann finally passed up an offer from the Miami Dolphins and went on to star in the Canadian Football League. Then last season, the Dolphins dealt his NFL rights to the Washington Redskins and he now is regarded as a good prospect as a starting quarterback.

Clements, who led the Irish to a 29-5 record during his three seasons, said, "I'm glad I came here. I played on a national championship team (1973) and we went to two bowl games and won both of them against Alabama. It's been a great experience."

"He's such a good, all-around athlete and leader, it seems unusual some team wouldn't draft him and try to move him to another position," an athletic department spokesman at ND said in the absence of retired coach Ara Parseghian.

Clements, the son of a doctor from McKees Rock, Pa., ran for 1,096 yards in 281 carries and completed 269 of 497 passes for 3,613 yards during his career.

Notre Dame wasn't overlooked in the draft. The Irish had ten selected, but Clements' absence from the list shook up a lot of ND fans.

Clements said he might consider a Canadian offer, but that right now he's interested in getting into law school. If that happens, he added, "I'd have to think about it."

Baseball Rules Improvement?

NEW YORK (AP) — If a pitcher wants to get credit for a "save," he's got to finish the game. And if a batter wants to finish a game—and avoid missing three others—he'd better not mess with his bat.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Thursday that the Official Playing Rules Committee, approving a proposal by the Baseball Writers Association of America, tightened the regulations under which relief pitchers qualify for a save.

Relievers must finish a game won by his team and must not be the winning pitcher. Further, he must enter the game with a lead of three runs or less and must pitch at least one inning, or he must enter the game with the potential tying run either on base, at bat or on deck, or he must pitch effectively for at least three innings.

Under the old rules, more than one pitcher could qualify for a save, in which case the official scorer could credit it to the pitcher he deemed most effective. Or the scorer could not credit one at all.

Some players have begun using "cupped" bats, ones with an indentation in the thick end. To cope with this, the committee decided upon limits to such bats.

"An indentation in the end of the bat up to one inch in depth is permitted," the rule reads, "and may be no wider than two inches and no less than one inch in diameter. The indentation must be curved with no foreign substance added."

Last month the committee approved a rule whereby a player who uses an illegally filled or doctored bat can be thrown out of a game and slapped with a three-day suspension.

Foreign substances on pitchers—mainly those who might be thinking about throwing a greaseball or some other illegal pitch—now will bring about immediate ejection from a game. Prior to the strengthening of this rule, an umpire could give a warning prior to sending an offending pitcher to the show-ers.

Whittier Junior High Cagers End Unbeaten

Whittier Junior High's basketball team finished the season unbeaten at 9-0 Thursday night by beating Millard Lefler Junior High, 53-27.

Arnie Brown with 11 points, Ralph McWilliams with 10 and Kevin Ginger with eight paced the winners.

Geiberger Gets Birdie, Lead

HONOLULU (AP) — Al Geiberger birdied his final hole to break out of a massive seven-way tie and take sole control of the lead with a rain-soaked six-under-par 66 Thursday in the first round of the $220,000 Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament.

The soft-spoken Geiberger, who broke an eight-year victory drought last fall in the Sahara Open, wedged up to four feet from the birdie that gave him a one-stroke advantage over Allen Miller—no relation to the absent Johnny Miller—Charles Coody, Bob Murphy, Bob E. Smith, Buddy Allin and Eddie Pearce, runner-up in this tournament a year ago.

They were at 67, five-under-par on the Waialae Country Club course, a tropically-lush layout under the shadow of Diamondhead that was made longer than its listed 7,154 yards by a day-long drizzling rain.

Jack Nicklaus was another shot back, and two behind Geiberger, after a 68.

"This was my first round in the 60s this year," said Nicklaus, the defending champion and a heavy favorite. "At least I've got it going in the right direction. And I made some putts for the first time this year."

LPGT Field New Record

MIAMI (UPI) — The 1975 Ladies Professional Golf Tour begins Friday with a record field of 98 pros and six amateurs competing in the $40,000 Burdines Invitational.

The 54-hole tournament is being played for the second year over the demanding Kendale Lakes Country Club course and will draw all of the top money winners from the 1974 tour with the possible exception of Jane Blalock, runnerup to JoAnn Carner in last year's LPGA dollar race.

Miss Blalock is still hobbled by an injured right ankle.

"It's crazy, but I hurt it dancing in the living room a week ago," she said. "The doctors said I had strained ligaments and that if he didn't put it in a cast, I wouldn't walk for three weeks."

The cast came off Wednesday, but she was still hobbling Thursday.

"For sure, I plan to start Friday, and I'll finish if I'm at all able," she said.

Miss Blalock's $86,422 in winnings last year was second only to Mrs. Carner's $87,097. Other top 1974 money winners teeing off in the 1975 tour opener include Sandra Haynie, JoAnn Prentice and Judy Rankin.

Defending Burdines champion Sandra Palmer will return, along with last year's runnerup.

Kathy Whitworth, the LPGA's career money winning leader Laura Baugh, the girl watchers' favorite and the 12th leading money winner last year, also will play.

The event begins a tour which is expected to be about as lucrative as last year's $1.8 million total, despite the uncertain state of the nation's economy.

"We're well set for sponsors this year," said Bud Erickson, the tour's executive director. "We will play for about the same money as last year."
